

CHRISTMAS EVE BRINGS CLOSE TO CONTEST; GIVE PRIZES OUT LATER

Contestants in the Detroit Street Merchants' Association race for possession of the Willys-Knight coupe-sedan, and the nine cash prizes offered by the local merchants will have to get busy between now and Christmas eve.

No votes will be given away by members of the association after Thursday night, December 24. An error in the full-page advertisement carried by The Gazette Monday night and in Tuesday morning's Republican gave the impression that the vote collecting should be completed by Wednesday night, due to a misunderstanding in the advertising copy.

Votes will be counted December 24, 26, 28, 29 and 30 and will be accepted until December 30. Winners of the

Two million votes are out in the contest, which has become heated during the several weeks of progress.

Dublin, Dec. 22.—The Urban Council of Bray, County Wicklow, is beginning to wish it had not been so enthusiastic in adopting an Irish name for their town.

Bray is a fairly fashionable resort, and in the season derives a considerable income from tourists. Some time ago the council changed its name to "Bri Chualann," and a marked slump in the tourist traffic was noticed.

The townspeople, in consequence, decided to return to the old name, but the Wicklow County Council refused to give its assent. Permission was given to use "Bray" in brackets underneath the "Bri" but the residents say this will afflict their town with three names, and will result in worse confusion than ever.

HAVE A HEART.

THERE are not so many shopping days before Christmas as there were when first you were asked to do your Christmas buying early, and there is no hope that the number is going to increase between now and midnight of the twenty-fourth. Nor will prices be reduced; nor will the quality of the goods now on the shelves increase. So why linger and delay?

Perhaps there are those who thought that "Do your Christmas shopping early" is a slogan devised by merchants who thought they would sell more goods if people bought early, and then took thought, and discovered that there was more buying they ought to do. But while that doubtless occurred to the merchants, it was not by any means the controlling motive that inspired the shop-early propaganda which greets us annually.

The fact is, the request for early Christmas shopping came, first, chiefly from the postoffices, the express companies, the railroads and the sales and delivery people, all of whom found themselves swamped by a tidal wave that hit them suddenly and left them devastated. Some way had to be found for controlling this tide, for distributing its volume. So an attempt was made to educate the public into buying early and shipping early.

The fear of the merchant is not so much that his sales will not reach the hoped-for peak as that his future will be jeopardized. There is nothing that so disrupts a carefully-built organization as the overstrain of the two or three days—and nights—of hurried and harried labor before Christmas. Clerks break down; some of them leave; others are not fit again for some time, and meanwhile system goes to the dogs and the sales-machine has to be rebuilt. Customers, too, offended by some frazzled employee, get sore and vow never to trade there again. So the merchant, desiring to serve his public well, asks the public to help him to do so by distributing Christmas buying over as long a period as possible.

So it behooves the public, since it wants service, to remember that the chief element in that service is the human element and that the human machine breaks under undue strain just like any piece of machinery. And because Christmas is a time for special charity to all humans, it is only reasonable that shoppers and shippers be considerate of the store clerk, the postal employee and the servants of the express companies and railways. They want to enjoy Christmas, too. Why make the Yuletide hateful to them? Have a heart. Do your Christmas shopping early.

HOW WEALTH IS ACQUIRED.

EVERYONE knows instances of wealth gained through "good fortune" or speculation but doubtless the Urbana Democrat's editor is right in his contention that there are far more persons who have lost heavily through speculation or investment in property of which they knew nothing. He says:

"The idea is held by many that they can gain wealth by some lucky speculation. They can of course find instances, where people have made money without knowing much about the field where they were investing. But there are a far greater number of cases where people have lost money because they invested in forms of property with which they were unfamiliar.

"The majority of people who have acquired wealth have gotten it by their thorough knowledge of the business field into which they put their money and effort. If they earned it in some line of business, they usually got it because they understood that business better than the people with whom they competed, and because they put more energy and enterprise in it.

"If they gained it in the field of investment, they got it in the great majority of cases, because they made a thorough study of the conditions in the particular field they were putting their money into. They were able to form a shrewd opinion as to the developments of the future and the things that would help or hinder the success of such an investment.

"It is pretty hard to get something for nothing. Money commonly comes as the reward of superior service or superior intelligence or insight. People who can estimate human action and motives correctly are very apt to make money, because they see ahead and know in advance what people are going to do, and the kinds of things for which there is a public demand.

"They are observant people, who estimate aright the popular tendencies and can size up people and commercial and economic conditions. The community is full of people who have lost money because they bought forms of property they did not know anything about."

NAVY HYDROGRAPHIC OFFICE NEEDS FLYER

Washington Dec. 22.—The Naval Hydrographic office is in need of a trained aviator to devise special sailing directions and pilot charts for aviators, Captain F. B. Bassett, Naval Hydrographer, told Secretary of the Navy Wilbur in his annual report today.

"The shortage of officers mentioned in the report of 1924 continues," Bassett declared. "The work of the office is continually increasing due to the invention of new instruments, new methods and to the increased activities of all foreign hydrographic offices and to the mercantile marines of all countries and the increasing demands of aerial navigation."

Bassett pointed out that the publication of pilot charts of the upper air for the use of aviators is being considered by the Department and that an officer with flying experience is needed to take charge of their preparation.

Home Wife vs. Office Wife

Should a girl who works in an office keep on working there after her marriage, in order to help her husband financially?

Young husbands and wives all over the country are facing this problem today. It is the theme of

VIOLET DARE

The Bread and Butter Wife

the best married life serial ever written

By VIOLET DARE

The characters are the kind of people we all know. Sally Lee, the heroine, is a high class secretary before she marries Tom Porter, a real estate salesman. Her sister, Emily, marries Jack Sawyer at the same time, and gives up her position with a fashionable interior decorator to become a home wife.

VIOLET DARE handles the problem ably and delightfully. Her name is already well known to readers. She is the author of The Half-Time Wife, A Wife on Leave, My Matrimonial Vacation, and many other married life serials that have run in this and other newspapers throughout the country.

THE BREAD AND BUTTER WIFE will run for eight weeks in six daily installments averaging eight hundred and fifty words. It is attractively illustrated by Marguerite Neale.

Old Waterloo Bridge Replaced

REPLACING OF WATERLOO BRIDGE

Army Given New Uniform

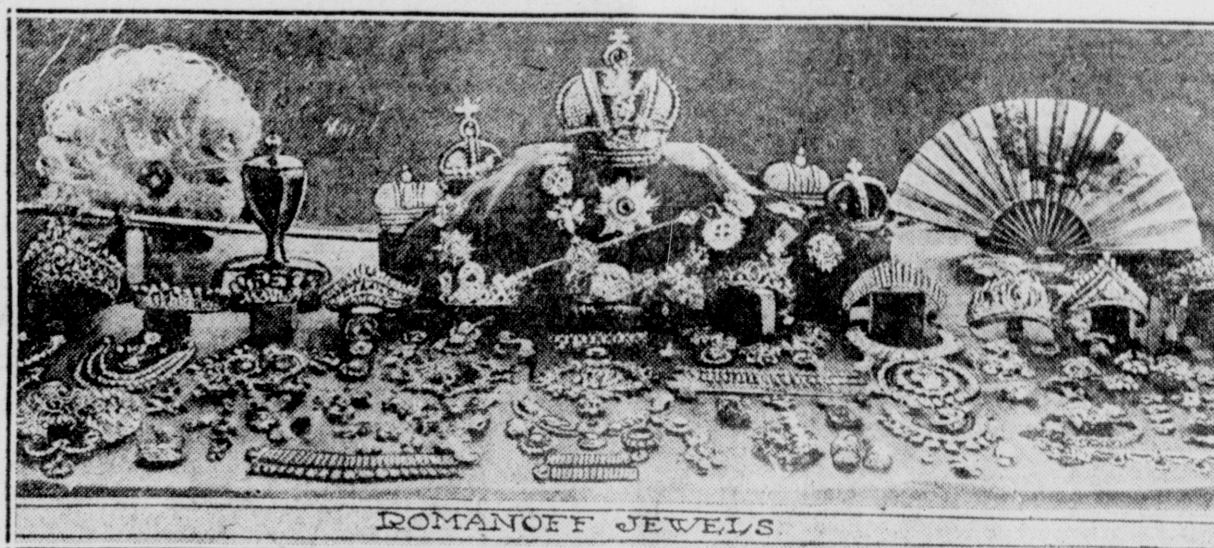

After a ten year campaign, army officers finally have succeeded in winning official approval of a new uniform for both officers and enlisted men. The "choke collar" will be discarded and a modern roll-collar substituted. At left is new uniform coat; at right, the old. The material—khaki, remains the same.

$250,000.00 Romanoff Jewels to Be Sold

Cremates Wife, Mother-in-Law, Decapitates Step-Son

Additional horrible details of weird triple murder confessed by F. M. Snow, recluse, are being unearthed by Erath county, Tex., authorities. He cremated his wife and mother-in-law and decapitated his stepson, 19. The four had lived in a shack in the barren hills near Ft. Worth, Tex., for many years. The photos show Snow; his home; the fireplace in which he burned the two women; Bernie Connally, the third victim; and an officer digging for human ashes.

ATTEMPT TO IMPROVE FILMS CAUSED HIS RUIN SAYS CHARLES RAY, NOW BANKRUPT

Wood, Dec. 22.—(United)—Charles Ray, bankrupt film star, blames "art" for his financial desire to contribute something to the motion picture profession.

"Art" Ray declared today in interview. "I tried to produce my own pictures, and failed. It was poor business management. I attended to the but my managers who handled production and distribution, argued petty things and we headed to bankruptcy."

His creditors have filed more than zen suits against him in Los Angeles courts. Recently he filed an uncertain bankruptcy petition listing of approximately a million dollars, with assets of less than one million dollars.

Ray's financial "bust" is another chapter in the story of meteoric successes in the film business.

The star, not many years ago, was fully wallowing in wealth. He had more than a million dollars in actual cash to his credit in the banks. He owned a huge film plant and had extensive real estate holdings.

His wife had expensive jewelry, they had a palatial home, fleet of automobiles, and maintained a large staff of liveried servants.

Ray's only assets today are his histrionic talents. His liabilities are staggering. He lives with his wife in a rented house, drab in its comparison to the mansion they once occupied.

Withal, Ray is optimistic, and has returned to the business of picture-making under the banner of one of the biggest producing companies.

"Life is just a series of experiences," he philosophized. "I went out and learned bitterly from experience. But I still think more of my career than money."

"I was not content to make good, light farces that would not last. That is why I sank on the financial scale.

"But I did it, and still I am not unhappy. To achieve the things I want brought me happiness despite the fact it brought me financial ruin, too.

To merit has all been marvelously successful, as I didn't go into the business to make money alone."

"Now I know I will be able to do things on the silent stage that I would not have been able to do had I not tried the artistic."

"If John D. Rockefeller gives $10,000,000 to a hospital, that is not news. But if he gives a dime to a traffic cop, that is news," O'Hara states.

"If prohibition is a success that is news to everybody," according to O'Hara, isn't Neal naughty?

OHIO WHEAT MAKES FLAKY PIE CRUST EXPERTS DECLARE

Though Ohio's soft winter wheats don't command the market price that western hard wheats do, soft-wheat flour alone or a blend of the two can serve the housewife's needs just as well, farm crops and home economics specialists at the Ohio State University say.

For many home uses soft-wheat flours are just as good or better than the hard-wheat product. It is easier, home economics specialists have found, to make tender cake and flaky pie crust with soft-wheat flour. For thickening sauces, gravies, and the hundred and one other small household needs one kind is as good as another—and Ohio soft-wheat flour is cheaper.

To help housewives distinguish between soft-wheat and hard-wheat flours the U. S. Department of Agriculture offers these suggestions:

"The flours from soft wheats have a velvety texture somewhat like cornstarch, and those from hard wheat are usually more gritty, but it requires some experience and a fine sense of touch to detect this difference."

Experts usually do it by taking a pinch of flour and rubbing it lightly between the thumb and the third finger. Another way is to squeeze a handful of it lightly and notice as the hand is opened, whether the flour remains in a mold and shows the impression of the fingers. In this test a hard-wheat flour acts more like a powder and the mold breaks up more readily than that of a soft-wheat flour.

"Weighing is still another method. A quart of hard-wheat flour sifted once and dipped lightly into the measure, then leveled off, weighs about 16 to 17 ounces, or even more. A quart of soft-wheat flour sifted and measured in the same way weighs only about 14 or 15 ounces."

STUDENTS PROTEST FOREIGN MEETING

Shanghai, Dec. 22—Strong student hostility to the Customs Conference is reported at Hankow.

Recently, the students held a monster demonstration as a protest against the holding of the conference in Peking. They claim that in permitting the conference to be held, the Chief Executive, Tuan Chi-jui, has been guilty of betraying his country to the foreign powers.

The results of the conference, they assert, cannot be of benefit to China but will only bind her still more tightly under the yoke of foreign oppression."

The demonstration commenced with a mass meeting, after which hundreds of students carrying paper flags paraded the streets and distributed pamphlets.

WILL HOLD CLINIC FOR EVANGELISTS

Defiance, O., Dec. 21.—An evangelistic clinic for all pastors in the Defiance district of the Methodist Episcopal Church is to be held here March 15.

The district is composed of six counties of northwestern Ohio. Bishop Theodore S. Henderson of Cincinnati will preside.

The Rev. George W. Orcutt, field organizer for the Methodist church in Ohio, is organizing the pastors of Defiance county for the clinic.

"It's too bad," Connemara murmured consolingly, trying not to giggle. "Still, I'm not so sure it's such a bad thing for us they did make a get-away. We've all been mixed up in some pretty queer proceedings. I'm afraid, and Aunt Celimena would just naturally have died if we'd appeared on the front page of the morning papers. As for the money, you leave that to me. I've a sort of hunch—"

She walked over and held out her hand to the weeping Sweetie, who promptly slapped it away.

"Teeth like a darn fox terrier," she sobbed, and continued to rub her wounded leg.

Connemara again reached out her hand, and this time pulled the other girl to her feet. "I'm so sorry—truly, I am. But I just had to. Now—come in here, won't you, for a minute?"

Brushing her tears from her eyes, Sweetie reluctantly followed Connemara within the moonlit sitting room. "What a fine can of oil I turned out to be," she muttered. "To let a soft little social dame put it over on me."

"Don't feel so badly," Connemara smiled. "I didn't play fair. How could you know I'd bite you?" She put a hand on the girl's shoulder and patted her gently. Then a hard note came into her voice. "It's no use, you know. Hand it over, please."

"You bet your life you are!" Lacy exclaimed. Whatever else he may have meant to do or say was cut short by a blood-curdling shriek. With a thud remarkably reminiscent of that made by a sack of potatoes cast into a wagon, Aunt Celimena sat heavily down upon the top stair, and slid unceremoniously down upon them.

George Palmer Putnam

By George Palmer Putnam

Halfway down the stairs, Aunt Celimena caught at the banisters, staying her erratic progress half-way, and rose to her feet. Anyong but Aunt Celimena would have been shaken by the sudden pitching forward into the darkness, but that good lady, after the briefest instant of pause to regain her breath, was once more in command of her dignity. Clutching her dressing gown about her, she dominated, by sheer will power, the strange assembly, half grouped in the front hall of Moerlands, and half overflowing upon the broad porch.

"Connemara," she called. "Will you be good enough to come and tell me what this is all about?"

Instead of answering, however, that young lady voiced an observation of her own.

"And now see who's here! The faithful family lawyer himself, completing the cast of our mellow melodrama." Connemara was on the crest again, her strenuous experiences, apparently even her bruises, for the moment forgotten.

Her sally followed the sudden appearance of Adam Brewster descending in Aunt Celimena's wake, the only one of the gathering who was conventionally clad.

"That, my dear, will do," Aunt Celimena spoke grimly. "Naturally Mr. Brewster heard the extraordinary commotion going on downstairs and came to our assistance. Did you expect anyone to sleep through it?"

"Oh, well," answered Sweetie, "who cares? Naw, it ain't mine. And if it interests you any, I'll tell you I'm glad to see the last of it."

"Poor kid," said Connemara, and once more she patted Sweetie's shoulder. "I like you—a lot. I want to have a talk with you later. Don't you get terribly sick of this sort of life?"

"Aw, for the love of Mike—don't bother about me. I ain't worth it." Nevertheless, with a quick movement, she grasped Connemara's hand and pressed it. "You're a damn good egg yourself."

"Well, what's up?" came Lacy's voice from the doorway. "Find the money?"

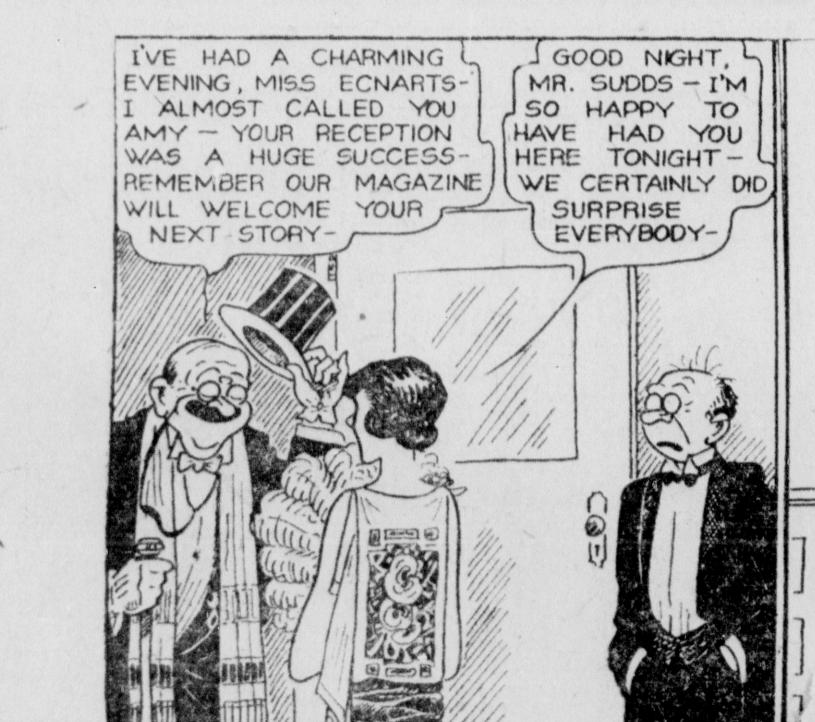

Connemara did not hesitate. Her eyes flashed slightly in signal to Sweetie as she answered cheerfully, "Um-h'mm, wasn't it bright of me? I must be losing what little mind I have. It's been right where I put it, all the time. You just forget what I dreamed about burying it, won't you?"

"Fine," Lacy said imperturbably, but his eyes looked straight into hers with a quick little glow of admiration. "And now, Misser, Sweetie, McTish seems to have something he wants to say to you out on the porch."

"Yeh?" Sweetie snickered. "Well, pardon me for livin'." Then to Connemara. "Holler if he gets fresh." She walked sedately out of the room.

GAS BUGGIES—Hem Will Have To Look To His Laurels

CONTRACTS FOR ROAD IMPROVEMENT LET IN COLUMBUS MONDAY.

Contracts for the remodeling of two sections of the Columbus and Cincinnati Pike into a macadam road from the Xenia corporation line to the Warren County line, were let by the state highway department in Columbus Monday, involving $154,755.63 in highway construction.

Bish and Carey, Ada, O., was low bidder to pave 2,627 miles of the road in Spring Valley Twp. with surface-treated, water-bound macadam grade A limestone. The Ada Co. submitted a bid of $61,737.58.

Low bid of $93,018.05 was submitted by N. B. Putnam, Columbus, for paving 5,372 miles of the pike in Spring Valley and Xenia Twp. with surface-treated, water-bound macadam grade B limestone. Contracts were let to these two concerns.

Four bids were received on the Cincinnati Pike construction work.

Low bids submitted for the work were far below the engineer's cost estimate of improving the pike, it is said.

Actual excavation work will not be started before next spring with the return of favorable weather conditions, but contracts stipulate the work must be completed by September 1, 1926.

ITALIAN DISCOVERS PERFECT EMBALMING

Milan, Dec. 22—Discovery of a form of embalming superior to the method of the ancient Egyptians and calculated to replace all modern systems of preserving the dead, is claimed by Dr. Alfredo Maggia of Milan.

At the Central hospital of Novara, a town near Milan, Dr. Maggia gave to a conference of medical men and scientists a proof of the efficacy of his system.

The body of a man treated by his special methods six months ago was shown to the doctors present, who were said to recognize that the system of embalming employed had perfectly preserved not only the body but the lineaments of the face.

With Dr. Maggia's system, no sectioning of the body takes place, but certain injections are used.
